

I work every day on the phone. When I get home I don't even want to talk with family and friends let alone someone trying to sell me something I don't want. Why is it I can't decide who is allowed to call me on the phone that I pay for? Over half of the the people who call will become rude if you refuse to speak with them, their #'s are blocked so I have no way of knowing who is harrassing me! How is that fair?
